SPORT REPORT:

Hello again,

Another great weekend of games. Honestly, this is the most chaotic CFB season in recent memory and I'm beyond here for it. Alabama was the last man standing in terms of looking infallible and this weekend, they finally looked vulnerable. Of course, its Nick Saban, the man who sold his soul to the devil to win football games, so I'm sure they'll learn from this and go on to win the natty 38428324 to 0. But still, any game where that man looks stressed is a game I want to watch. Also, I think the stock on Georgia is up and this Bama-Florida game means that the SEC championship might actually be competitive now.

Clemson continues to look super vulnerable and I think this game might be the one that knocks them out of the playoffs. A one-loss team can't barely beat Georgia Tech and still expect a playoff berth. Dabo Sweeny has a god complex, so he still will, but he definitely shouldn't. Cincinnati looked vulnerable against IU but I don't think anyone (by anyone I mean us Notre Dame fans) should read too much into that. IU is still coming off a pretty good season last year and Cinci showed that they can execute good halftime adjustments, which lord knows has been a problem for us.

I will say ND looked dramatically better. This was definitely a make it or break it game in my mind, because we 100% need a confidence booster heading into the next stretch of games. The run game was finally effective and the defense looked much more cohesive. Jack Coan still looks like a less-accurate Ian Book but then again he was sacked four times. I'm still confused about the offensive line's regression and I want to say, "they're young, they'll learn," but uh, we're running out of time to learn??

The big game this week was Penn St-Auburn and it did not disappoint. Penn St finally looks like Penn St again and Bo Nix continues to retain the title of "most questionable decision-maker ever to play quarterback." Seriously, I had to pick my jaw up off the floor – there was like two minutes left, it was 4th and 2 or something like that and Nix decided to . . . overthrow the ball into double coverage??? I know Penn St was upset about the refs, but honestly, Bo Nix was making judgement calls that anyone who's ever played quarterback, even if only in your middle school PE flag football class, would never make so I think it's ok.

As far as the NFL, welcome back Jameis Winston!! Once again, he played like the only person to ever throw 30 TD passes and 30 interceptions in a season. I admit, I was fooled last week, but he proved me wrong. Isn't it kind of nice that even in these unprecedented times, with the world changing daily, one thing remains the same? Trevor Lawrence also turned in another shaky performance – it's only been two games and way too early to tell but I'm still waiting to see what was billed as the "most complete QB prospect ever."

I'll conclude with a Duke shoutout for Davis Lovvorn, who has been waiting what feels like literal years for that football team to win a single game. You did it!!!

Geaux Irish,

Ashley

1L OF THE WEEK:

Our 1L of the Week is William Ulrich! Will was so kind to take time out of his busy 1L schedule to answer my questions. Grab him some Barnaby's Pizza and spend some time getting to know him.

Q. Where are you from/where did you attend undergrad?

I am from a suburb of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, called Waukesha, and I attended St. Norbert College which is in Green Bay, Wisconsin.

Q. What is a tailgating must have?

I would say food is a tailgating must have. A tailgate without food really leaves a lot to be desired.

 Will recommends bratwurst or Italian sausage

Q. If you could go back 5 years, what advice would you give your younger self?

Kind of boring, but I would tell my younger self to read more books. Also, invest in cryptocurrency.

Q. What kitchen item would you be?

I would be a dishwasher, only because it is my favorite kitchen appliance. Kind of a clean freak when it comes to the kitchen, and I like the added sanitation the dishwasher brings.

Feel free to swing by and do my dishes anytime your heart desires, Will!

Q. If you had to live in extreme weather, would it be a hot or cold climate?

Probably a cold climate. The idea of being in a continuous state of warmth doesn't sound appealing to me. Also, I've experienced a few blizzards while living in Green Bay and I can't say they're that bad.

Q. Is it better to be extraordinary and late, or adequate and on time?

Adequate and on time. I absolutely hate being late, and I feel like being extraordinary doesn't justify lateness.

Q. Clean as you cook or clean up at the end?

Without doubt clean as you cook. I hate having a dirty kitchen and the idea of a mountain of dirty dishes sounds terrible to me.

Q. Favorite South Bend restaurant so far?

I cannot say I've been to many, but Baranby's is my favorite so far. I'm always a fan of a good pizza place.

Q. Anything you'd like to say to your fans?

In my freetime it's more likely than not I'm on the golf course. If you're a golfer, let me know and let's play a round.

 Will said his best round of golf was at Erin Hills Golf Course. The course was incredibly picturesque and a great challenge.

Q. Who should be next week's 1L of the week?

Will Clark.

 = Editor's Commentary

2Ls TAKING Ls:

This week's "2l taking Ls" story comes from our golfing god, Blake Hale. Blake is my favorite gossip girl on campus. His facial expressions in class never fail to make me laugh. Buy him a cool drink when you see him and maybe an umbrella?

Now for our feature presentation:

(Swimming in freezing cold water in Wyoming a week before the below mentioned incident)

My first day in the office at Reed Smith this summer was a Monday. It was warm and sunny and I decided to make the 2 mile walk to work without looking at the weather. I worked all day and was going to head home at about 4 pm because I got to the office at 7 am. It was pretty dark outside from ominous clouds and I thought I could make it back to my apartment before it started raining. I was wrong.

I was less than 5 minutes into a 20ish minute walk when it started raining the hardest I've ever seen. I was in a full suit and dress shoes when I decided I was too wet to wait it out and decided to sprint the entire rest of the way home and got absolutely soaked. My tie had to be rung out and my suit took hours to dry. Ruined my shoes and got laughed at by the doorman at the apartment complex. Then 2 hours later I got caught in the rain again when I was trying to get dinner.

Chris Pillay, you're next.

ASK A 3L:

This week's 3L feature is Carter Wietecha!!! If you see him around, buy him a protein smoothie and compliment his biceps.

Question: Carter actually received two questions...

(1) Dear Carter, How do I get in great shape like you? Are there any solid gyms in the area for law students? Sincerely, Small Armed Scholar.

(2) What is the best pre-workout on the market? Asking for a friend.

3L Advice:

(1) First off, the compliment is very much appreciated, Small Armed Scholar. As far as local gyms go, I think Charter Fitness is a solid option. Plenty of good equipment, 24/7 access, and a very laid back atmosphere. Price also isn't unreasonable, and a few of us law students train there already. As far as the gains are concerned, consistency is everything. My best advice is to try and find a friend to train with. It's much more fun and helps add accountability/ motivation.

(2) C4 Ultimate is pretty awesome. Expensive, but awesome. Not to be confused with regular C4, which is significantly less awesome.

Submit your questions to next week's 3L, Sebastian Bellm, below.
